Moving Along...Making Progress!

Day four!

It is day number four into go-live for Franklin General Hospital and all appears to be on track and going well. Issues continue to occur, which is to be expected. FGH currently have four critical issues open that they are working on to fix.

Dee Keninger, a super user, helps out Kathie Calhoun with some charting on a patient.

"Things are going extremely well, it has been a successful implementation. It is a tribute to the tremendous amount of hard work and effort that has been put in over the past two years."

-Mark Klosterman, FGH CEO

Go Live July 2008

Issues are brought into Chris so the team can discuss them before the network meeting.

"I feel it is going great, as I continue to spend more time on the EHR, it takes less time. I have already found that I have more time to spend with the patient."

-Tara Freeseemann, FGH Nurse Aide

Working as a team

As issues arise, the 3 network hospitals that went live talk through those issues everyday. Meetings are occurring through the day locally and between the networks. If common issue arise, the facilities work together to fix the issue. This has proven to be beneficial and allows the facilities to learn together and from each other.
